DETAILED ACTION

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

1. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention: as follows

- I. Claims 13-18, drawn to interdomain routing system having transmission node and destination node, with destination domain includes reception path.
- II. Claims 33-39, drawn to interdomain routing system having transmission node and destination node, with destination domain includes transmission path.
- III. Claims 58-65, drawn to interdomain routing system having transmission node and destination node, with transmission node includes service node path selection means for selecting optimum service node
- IV. Claims 48-57, drawn to interdomain routing system having transmission node including service load monitoring procedure for monitoring a processing load.
- V. Claims 40-47, drawn to interdomain routing system having transmission node including service load conducting comparison of end-to-end path costs based on a processing.
- VI. Claims 19-25, drawn to interdomain routing system having a node comprising destination domain transmission path for requesting a destination node.

- VII. Claims 7-12, 26-32, drawn to interdomain routing system having a node comprising destination domain transmission path for replying request from transmission node.
- VIII. Claims 1-6, drawn to interdomain transmission node including destination domain reception path for requesting destination node toward destination node.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, there is no generic claim.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
